Gardiner Roberts LLP has been named to the list of Canada's 50 Best Workplaces. The Great Place to Work® Institute made the announcement of the 2018 list of "Best Workplaces in Canada" in a Special National Report published in today's Globe and Mail. We are proud that Gardiner Roberts has once again been recognized on the list of Great Places to Work in Canada. We understand one of the great things about GR is our culture and the collective sense that all employees have opportunities for growth both personally and professionally because the real competitive advantage in any business today is "people."
Paul Stoyan, Chair, Gardiner Roberts LLP.

Gardiner Roberts is proud of those initiatives in the firm that have been integrated over time to recognize employees for individual contributions to the firm through length of service with gifts to employees to celebrate anniversary milestones, as well as social events for employees throughout the year to help build camaraderie and foster a relaxed and professional culture.
